

10 μm

The image displays three vertically aligned circular structures, likely cross-sections of a porous material or biological cells. Each structure is dark and exhibits a complex, porous internal texture. They are positioned between two horizontal bars, one at the top and one at the bottom, which appear to be part of a supporting structure or a measurement setup. A scale bar in the bottom left corner indicates a length of 10 micrometers.